Montville Township Public Library Director's Report

December 14, 2020

In November, we welcomed 26 new library users. The Circulation team processed 520 new items. Also, this month, we shipped out 12 boxes to Better World Books and 13 boxes to Sustainable Shelves. 8,541 items were borrowed through the Polaris ILS with additional items borrowed through Overdrive, Kanopy and Hoopla.

"I checked out a book on my phone!"

In the month of November, the Montville Library along with five other MAIN libraries, pioneered the mobile self-check experience. Empowering our patrons with the ability to checkout library items at any point during their browsing session is a value added to the convenience of the checkout process, the productivity of their visit, and the increased capacity of borrowers' digital competency. Not to mention, mobile checkout also offers a safer experience for visitors as it minimizes contact with staff and the self-check machines.

To help supplement the promotion of our new Solus mobile App, MAIN recently released new, customizable marketing materials for each library to advertise. Also, soon after its public release, MAIN will create a new Mobile App HQ webpage on the staff website to bring together all the information that has been shared thus far. Although there are still some fixes that will need to be applied to the mobile App to ensure that users get the most out of their experiences, we are well on our way to continue connecting our residents through new technologies and resources advancing the Library's vision as the "Place to Grow."

In addition to the technological offering with the arrival of the Solus mobile App, this month also offered a valuable two-part customer service workshop, attended by the Circulation staff. LibraryLinkNJ presented "Delivering Effective Customer Service" by Dr. Steve Albrecht. Dr. Albrecht navigated attendees through the first part of his workshop, "Keeping Library Staff and Patrons Protected in a Pandemic" by discussing what tools and skills we need to use in order to provide skillful and dedicated service to patrons as we continue to re-open their doors. In part two, "Library Customer Service in the New Normal," Dr. Albrecht canvassed many integral components to providing true service excellence.

Both of these workshops proved to be valuable preparation for what turned out to be our first incident dealing with an incident reflective of the looming mask-weary culture. During a browsing visit, an elderly gentleman went to check out a book on the self-check machine. Failing to receive his checkout receipt after he was finished, he drops his mask and exclaims to Jeff, "I didn't get a slip!" Noticing that the gentleman lowered his mask, Jeff replied, "Sir, if you want my help, you need to put your mask back on." "But I didn't get a slip," the gentleman repeated. "OK," Jeff rephrased, "I can't help you if you don't wear your mask." Ignoring Jeff's instruction, the gentleman rebutted, "you think these masks can protect you? These masks can't stop anything."

At that point, Walter realized that this exchange was only going to escalate. He approached the gentleman and asked him politely, "Did you need to checkout?" Dropping his mask to speak, he answered, "no I already checked out, I just need my due date slip." After asking for his library card, Walter printed his due date slip from his computer. Walter returned to the gentleman to make sure that wasn't any other assistance he might need.

As he prepared himself to leave, Walter waited patiently, off to the side, to see that no further exchanges were made between the gentleman and the library staff. As he headed to the door, Walter mentioned "Hey, I actually have to go outside, let me head out with you" -- a phrase that Dr. Albrecht recommends whenever wish to lead a patron without making them feel uncomfortable. Moreover, when discussing the proper approach, Dr. Albrecht mentioned that "when you see a problem, it's yours until it's solved."

Once outside, the gentleman asked, "What's his problem?!" Walter explained that our staff are required to enforce the proper wearing of protective face coverings at all times. The gentleman then asserts, "You know, these masks, they're only designed to make you feel good." Walter replied, "On behalf of the staff, thank you. Thank you for making us 'feel good'. By continuing to wear your mask, you make us all feel better." "Yeah, OK. Well see ya," the gentleman answered.

This incident illustrated how our staff effectively responds to times when the public becomes challenging. As we work together during these difficult times, the staff continues to set the necessary boundaries and enforce the code of conduct, while remaining neutral, approachable and polite, in order to protect the health and safety of each other and our guests. Library staff are front-line workers!!

During Risa's Diwali storytime, there was a first-time attendee. As a working mom, normally the grandmother would bring her children to storytime events. Sadly, the grandmother recently passed away. And with the children a little older now, the mother made it a point to attend this year's Diwali storytime. At the conclusion of Risa's program, this attendee said, "You may not recognize me because I am not here with any kids. My mother came to your storytimes with my children." As she explained to Risa and to the rest of the attendees that her mother passed away, she announced "I am here today to honor my mother because she would have loved the Diwali storytime."

This is the Montville Township Public Library!!

BUILDINGS & GROUNDS:

Crews from C. Dougherty have been out several times working on the punch list. The Director is in contact with Anthony Tesoriero, engineer from Whitman, to make certain that all things are in order and that the outstanding items on the punch list are completed.

We had another sewage back up and had to call Norton Sewer and Drain out for the third time. They snaked the line 200 feet until the blockage cleared. They suggested we make sure all the toilets are flushed a few times each day to keep the water moving in the lines. They think that could be a contributing factor to the backups. We owe a special thanks to our cleaning crew from Excellent Building Services and to Fred Ackerman from the Township DPW who cleaned up sewage from the floors of the six bathrooms.

Two weeks after this third sewage back up, Argent Contracting came out to repair seven leaky flushometers. Before they could start the repairs, they found that the sewage line was backed up again. They cleared it out and are giving us a proposal to hydro jet the line.

Ryan Fitzsimmons winterized the irrigation sprinklers.

The Garden Club prepared the Memorial Garden for winter. They trimmed the bushes and cut the perennials back. The garden is ready for a winter rest and is in good shape to come back in spring.

FINANCE:

Michael McGuire, Partner from Samuel Klein and Company, completed the 2019 audit. There were no recommendations which means it was a clean audit. There were no material findings on reporting, on performance objectives or any non-compliance with legislation.

The Business Office is gearing up for 2021 payroll changes. We will update employee health, dental and vision contributions, insurance waivers and PERS/CINS deductions as soon as salaries are approved. Our final 2020 payroll will be submitted on December 21. Our payroll is bi-weekly so our pay periods do not follow the calendar year.

Edmunds scheduled and completed an upgrade to comply with an IRS filing requirement that involved changes in reporting information for the 1099-MISC form. After the upgrade, we were not able to access all the Edmunds modules and reports. We are working with Edmunds and Lenny to fix this since it seems the upgrade caused some ports to be blocked by the Meraki firewall. It is good to know that the Meraki firewall is functioning as intended and blocking any communication changes until they are authorized by password protected IT staff.

MARKETING & OUTREACH:

Michael has assumed the role of Social Media Coordinator and has been making almost daily posts to our Facebook page. This has resulted in increased sign up and participation in our in-house programs including story times and crafts.

November's newsletters included the usual mix of current events and book news. Topics included Election Day, November Monday Movies and Friday Foreign Films, Polish American Heritage Month, Diwali, and Staff Picks among many others. Our emails directing patrons toward live events such as the PBS Books Election event are always popular. This month we asked the patrons to send us their favorite books for a future newsletter.

Risa keeps on top of current events as our display coordinator. This month's displays included Veteran's Day, Diwali, Thanksgiving, Picture Book Month, Alzheimer's Month, Native American History Month, National American Diabetes Month, World Vegan Month, Trans Awareness Week, Holiday Movies, and our author November birthdays – Marc Brown and Jan Brett.

On Tuesday, November 17th Risa had a very enjoyable Zoom Storytime with Funtime Kids Academy 2. She read Thanksgiving stories and even did the Turkey Hokey Pokey and Turkey Trot with two classes of approximately 10 to 12 students.

PATRON SERVICES:

Virtual Montville U continues to bring audiences for us, even virtually. Bob Butts, composer and conductor of the Baroque Orchestra. presented a popular two-part lecture series on "The Story of the Symphony" and the "History of the Opera". Patron favorite Walter Choroszewski gave a talk on the Ice Age and the birth of civilization.

This month Chef T showed us how to make perogies! An ingredient list is sent out to registrants prior to the class and participants cook along with Chef T "Live." Participants included young children cooking with a parent, preteens mastering a recipe on their own, and senior couples.

Weekly Yoga continues to grow in patron attendance. With the colder weather setting in we expect the attendance numbers to continue to increase.

Once again, available slots for our Adult Craft Classes filled soon after they were posted. Amy's Adult Craft Class participants were delighted with the results as they followed Amy's instructions and made a Thanksgiving table decoration. The Evening Adult Craft class led by Bernadine Ferrara featured a decorative Thanksgiving themed pumpkin.

This month our monthly Business/ Finance/ Career Series featured two programs. Thirty-four patrons logged in to hear Charles Clarkson's presentation on Medicare Open Enrollment options. Charles is a volunteer with the Senior Medicare Patrol. He visits the MTPL every fall to go over the Medicare updates. Our second program was an eBay tutorial presented by Rick Feingold, attended by 22 patrons.

For children, our two themed Story times, Diwali and Celebrate Poland, were hits. Janina Bartman helped assemble a fantastic Polish Grab N Go bag and, with assistance from Risa, taught the kids Polish history and language. Janina also loaned us some Polish cultural items which are featured in our display cases. We are lucky to have so many staff members with different language and cultural backgrounds and plan to continue special story times with members of the staff.

In November, we had two excellent programs by outside presenters, an interactive puppet show and a live reptile presentation. Twelve families joined puppeteer Brad Schurr who created puppets and then a show from the audience's brainstorming. Peter Ruston of PT Reptiles brought live reptiles including a tarantula, alligator, tortoise and snakes virtually into the homes of 24 families.

In in-house programming news, our Alphabet Tuesdays and Thanksgiving crafts provided holiday fun. Amy made 26 rain stick supply bags in to take home in honor of Native American history month. For Thanksgiving the kids made turkeys out of pinecones and socks and rice. Risa has joined our You Tube library cast for story times. She and Amy did our monthly live Babies and Toddlers Too! This month they featured Thanksgiving fingerplays, songs and crafts.

Amy created another great Story Walk outside the library, using a Thanksgiving book to help patrons celebrate the holiday. She got permission from author Dav Pilkey to create panels from T'was the Night Before Thanksgiving and set up a nice tableau on the library grounds.

Jeff and the TAB team put together a fabulous week-long slate of programs for Diwali. Two families took the time to email us to say how much they appreciated the event. Risa's live Diwali story time had an audience of 20. Jeff and the TAB Diwali volunteers held a virtual information session and made 50 gift bags with craft and snack supplies for participation in the You Tube videos. These included making Clay Diyas and Greeting Cards, Make Your Own Carrom Board (a game), a holiday cook along, and Make Your Own Rangoli (decorative patterns to celebrate the holiday). The six YouTube videos had a combined 265 views.

This month the teens also had a Valorant video game tournament with an audience of 59, and a Paint by Numbers and Luminaries craft.

Michael and Catherine began work on the Winter Reading Challenge which will take place Jan 1-30. Patrons of all ages will use Beanstack to log their reading and those completing the challenge will be entered into a prize raffle.

ELL continues to go well. Students did well on their first quiz, and Jeff is giving the final exam this week

TECHNOLOGY:

Lenny replaced the battery back for our servers with an APC Smart Uninterruptable Power Supply unit. We are ready for the inevitable weather-related outages.

James Fitzpatrick conducted our monthly Tech Class" How to Set up your Smart Home."

Michael researched equipment and pricing for a Memory Lab, a center which allows people to preserve their history by digitizing their analog photos, videos, and films. This is for possible inclusion in our Discovery Center. Many libraries across the country have Memory Labs, but none in NJ or the immediate area.

Michael, Allan, and Walter completed the SOLUS MAIN App beta testing, including documenting NFC functionality for final approval by Apple.

Michael upgraded the library's barcode scanners to new wireless models.
